1. Service Description

Payphone Compensation Per Call refers to the assessment of an access charge for each toll-free call originated from SaskTel's public or semi-public telephones (the pay telephones) and delivered to an Interexchange Carrier's (IXC's) network.

2. Conditions of Service

1. The Payphone Compensation Per Call charge applies to the IXC for each completed toll-free call that originates from a SaskTel pay telephone, except in limited situations where the call record cannot be captured by SaskTel due to technical limitations. The Payphone Compensation Per Call charge shall also be attributed to SaskTel's own completed toll-free calls that are routed over SaskTel's network.
2. Additional calls, which are initiated through the use of the "next call" key on the pay telephone, are also subject to the Payphone Compensation Per Call charge. However, additional toll-free calls attained through the use of dialing sequences on the IXC's platform are not subject to the Payphone Compensation Per Call charge.
3. For the purpose of applying the Payphone Compensation Per Call charge, calls are considered completed when the call is delivered to an IXC's network and SaskTel's billing record indicates that the call was answered.
4. Call detail recording is not available.
5. SaskTel will provide to the IXC, on a monthly basis, an electronic report of the number of toll-free calls associated with that IXC that were originated from SaskTel's public and semi-public pay telephones. The report will include each toll-free number called, the number of times that the toll-free number was called, the total number of toll-free calls generated, and the name of the IXC over whose network the toll-free calls were routed. Also, if requested by an IXC, SaskTel will include the originating exchange within the report. The report will be available following the receipt of a firm request.
