5. It is the responsibility of the Customer to correctly specify the phone number and email address that the converted voice mail messages should be sent to. SaskTel is not responsible if the phone number or email addresses are inputted incorrectly. This error could cause converted voice mail messages to be sent to another party's phone or email address.
6. Customers that subscribe to VMTT will still be able to access their voice messages through the telephone and Online Voice Mail.
7. VVMTT will only be able to convert messages spoken in English.
8. VMTT will only convert messages up to 90 seconds or less in length. If the message exceeds 90 seconds, the first 90 seconds of the message will be converted. The customer can access the rest of the message via the telephone or Online Voice Mail.
9. SMS text conversions are limited to 480 characters in length or 3 messages of 160 characters each in length. For example, a message containing 400 characters will be broken into 3 SMS texts with the first two SMS texts having 160 characters each, followed by the last text containing the remaining 80 characters.
10. Charges for voice mail to text conversions will apply, even if the converted text message is partially cut off due to exceeding 750 characters in duration, exceeding 480 characters in length with regards to SMS texts, or for some other reason.
11. SaskTel is not responsible for errors in the conversion of voice mail messages to text or for content that is unlawful, harmful, or otherwise objectionable.
12. VMTT provides as accurate a conversion of the voice mail as possible, although a user may still need to listen to the voice mail for content. In some instances, a third party may be used to assist in the translation of the individual words or small portions of a voice mail.
